

Still Doing Life

22 Lifers, 25 Years Later

Photographs and Interviews of People
Serving Life Sentences in Prison,
Separated by a Quarter Century

A Project by Howard Zehr & Barb Toews

Core Exhibition Narrative: Still Doing Life: 22 Lifers, 25 Years Later is a publication (published in March 2022 by The New Press) and an exhibition by Howard Zehr and Barb Toews consisting of 22 interviews and pairs of photographs taken 25 years apart of individuals serving life without the possibility of parole sentences in Pennsylvania prisons.

Core Exhibition Contents: 22 high quality prints on durable, lightweight canvas (unframed, unmounted) featuring side by side portraits and excerpts of interviews conducted with each individual the year the portrait was taken. Portraits taken in the early 1990s are black and white, while portraits taken in 2017 are in full color.

- Prints Available in Two Sizes: 3'x3' or 2'x2'
- Prints Available to Travel as Full Set, or as Excerpts of Full Set
- Prints Are Wall-to-Wall Insured Under Organizing Gallery's Policy

Shipping and Installation: The prints may be rolled and shipped in a tube or box that also includes hanging hardware. Prints are hung using magnetic tacks (nails with magnetic heads) hammered directly into wall with corresponding magnets directly on top of white margin of print. Double-sided tape may also be applied to the four corners of prints to keep artwork snug against the wall.

Additional Exhibition Elements: In addition to the canvas prints, exhibitors have the option to include: up to three, pre-designed informational text panels including (1) an overview and introduction to the project written by Zehr & Toews, (2) information on mass incarceration and life without possibility of parole sentencing, and (3) an overview of restorative justice practice and philosophy. Exhibitors may also choose to include video of a 50-minute long interview with the authors conducted by the Pennsylvania Office of Victim Advocates (media player and other AV equipment provided, exhibitor must provide their own tv monitor), as well as physical copies of the print publication *Still Doing Life.

Project History: The exhibition version of Still Doing Life debuted in June 2022 at the Free Library of Philadelphia (installation images available upon request). The exhibition and its tour is supported by an Art For Justice grant and is managed by Vox Populi Gallery (a Philadelphia-based non-profit arts organization) and The New Press.
